Stepfamilies: How to help your child adjust

What Exactly Is A Family? Watch how each member takes on the work.

The Parenting Center

How long does it take? How do you bring back your family members to the table and involve them in activities? A therapy session may consist of having the family write down their goals and teaching everyone how they can reach them. The activities are based on the initial conversations and build-up activities to help through the sessions. A therapy session of this kind could get a little heated, but with the therapist as a mediator, everyone can feel heard and issues can be addressed in a healthy manner.
