Hyde was born and raised in Yadkinville and gives credit to Flat Rock Baptist Church and her father for instilling in her a strong commitment to the church, particularly the Baptist church. This percentage of expenses is larger than the Board wants it to be. Among the Southern missionaries and ministers in North Carolina as elsewhere throughout the South there were many zealous Christians, who devoted much of their time to the condition of the colored people so much affected and improved during the days of slavery.

They then gave some of their reasons for withdrawing from the Raleigh Association, which we present in their own language. True, our white brethren were hindered by the wild forests, which were pathless and bridgeless, fieldless and cribless, and by the savage beasts and friendless red men, as well as by the slowness of travel, but after all, we may be permitted to compare our progress with our white brethren's struggles on educational and missionary lines; and I think the foe will feel more hopeful of us, while the friend will see reason for encouragement and pleasure. Hastings, governor of Pennsylvania, expresses regrets at his inability to attend the meeting on the 19th prox.

In the Fall of 1857 Elder Isaac Brooks was chosen Moderator, and served until 1859, when he was succeeded by Elder Abner Belcher, who held the office until 1862. It is a well established fact that the Sunday School is our dependence for additions to the churches; more than 80% of our new members, each year, coming from its ranks. Jesus called us to go out into all the world and that we must do. Although no specific information concerning other churches pastored by Brother Jackson is available, it is known that he pastored several churches. Standifer came to Providence in May 1944 as local missionary and then became associational missionary for Boone's Creek Association before leaving in February 1952 to answer the call of God to become associational missionary to Severn's Valley Baptist Association at Elizabethtown, Kentucky.
