Natchez Trace

Check out Style Blueprint for , with great shopping, restaurants and accomodations! Its length includes more than 45,000 acres 182 km² and the towering in , completed in 1994 and one of only two post-tensioned, segmental concrete arch bridges in the world. Make a side trip to Port Gibson to view the ruins of Windsor Plantation ruins, a series of 23, 45-foot tall plastered brick columns with ornate iron capitals, once a gorgeous plantation home. In the weeks to come, the Trace will provide me with a route to Nashville.

Natchez MS

For decades afterward, the Trace was mentioned only occasionally by historians. The Johnson house in downtown Natchez continued to be owned by the family until they sold it to the Ellicott Hill Preservation Society in 1976. The US signed treaties with the Chickasaw and Choctaw tribes to keep peace as European Americans entered the area in greater number.
