Western Schism

In his January 1054 reply to the emperor, Quantas gratias, Leo IX asks for his assistance against the and complains of what the pope saw as Caerularius's arrogance. Some Eastern Orthodox charge that joining in this unity comes at the expense of ignoring critical doctrinal differences and past atrocities. Qualifying the firm position taken when I wrote The Orthodox Church twenty years ago, I now believe, after further study, that the problem is more in the area of semantics than in any basic doctrinal differences.
