

Dictionary of quotations

Bell & Hyman - Dictionary of quotations (classical) : Harbottle, Thomas Benfield, d. 1904 : Free Download, Borrow, and Streaming : Internet Archive

Description: -
-dictionary of quotations
-dictionary of quotations
Notes: Originally published, London: Evans, 1962.
This edition was published in 1978

Filesize: 47.83 MB

Tags: #Oxford #Dictionary #of #Quotations

The Concise Columbia Dictionary of Quotations: Andrews, Robert: 9780231069908: skynet2550.us.to: Books

A propos—To the point; seasonably; in due time. A ma puissance—To my power.

Oxford Dictionary of Quotations: Knowles, Elizabeth: 9780199237173: skynet2550.us.to: Books

. After the spirit of discernment, the next rarest things in the world are diamonds and pearls. Amor a nullo amato amar perdona—Love spares no loved one from loving.

The Project Gutenberg eBook of Dictionary of Quotations, Compiled by James Wood.

All disputation makes the mind deaf, and when people are deaf I am dumb. A beast that wants discourse of reason. All measures of reformation are effective in proportion to their timeliness.

The Project Gutenberg eBook of Dictionary of Quotations, Compiled by James Wood.

An ass may bray a good while before he shakes the stars down. Alio sub sole—Under another sky lit. A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.

Oxford Dictionary of Quotations: Knowles, Elizabeth: 9780199237173: skynet2550.us.to: Books

It uses the modern-spelling text of Riverside Shakespeare Houghton, 1974, whereas the standard work, Stevenson's Home Book of Shakespeare Quotations Scribner, 1937; repr.

Quotation Dictionaries

Altera manu fert lapidem, altera panem ostentat—He carries a stone in one hand, and shows bread in the other. A cader va chi troppo in alto sale

—He who climbs too high is near a fall. Anticipation forward points the view.

The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations by Oxford University Press

Ae half o' the world doesna ken how the ither 5 half lives. A poet must sing for his own people. A grave and a majestic exterior is the palace of the soul.

The Oxford Dictionary of Quotations

Aquila non capit muscas—An eagle does not catch flies. A hundred years cannot repair a moment's loss of honour. A man can be so changed by love as to be unrecognisable as the same person.

Related Books

- Corporate affair
- Byelorussia - historical outline
- Genghis Khan, the emperor of all men.
- Studii de artă populară
- Management of expertise