By examining literature sources such as periodicals on the topic of electricity from that era, the author has unearthed a very important text by Henri Poincaré, dating from 1908. The usual perturbation problems connected with this situation can be classified into these three types: TYPE I. Readers will see that, contrary to what is often written, France's role has been significant.

It is most probable that matters of considerable practical importance are. Important contributions were made through both the work of French scholars from within diverse disciplines mathematicians, physicists, engineers, and through the geographical crossroads that France provided to scientific communication at the time. For the subsequent development of this method see, for example, —.

A study has also been made of non-linear oscillation in Lyapunov systems and in so-called Lyapunov systems with damping, and the general problem of energy transfer in them has been solved see, Chapt.
