The eighteen essays which make up this book, all previously published elsewhere, are conveniently put together in three sections, under the following headings: 1 Women and Religion: Buddhist and Christian Appropriation of Feminist Criticism; 2 issues in Theology, Religion and Society; and 3 questions of Spirituality and Human Liberation.

Review: [Untitled] on JSTOR

Pieris centers his attention on the Asian, and when the discussion is most concrete, South Asian dimensions of issues of religion, mission, Buddhist-Christian dialogue, and contemporary concerns, including human rights, women's issues, and feminist theological critiques, and the relations between spirituality and human liberation.

Fr. Aloysius Pieris, s.j.

Writing as an adept in Buddhist and Western philosophy, Pieris's insights bring into sharp focus the issues facing Christian theology, particularly in Christology and women's issues, in Asia today. He became for me a great object lesson in what I have been personally trying to articulate in whatever I have been writing and teaching during the last twenty five years. The University of Hawai'i Press also serves as a distributor for more than 140 scholarly publishers in North America, Asia, the Pacific, and elsewhere.

Project MUSE

The Society for Buddhist-Christian Studies, the journal's sponsor, was founded in 1987 to provide an ongoing organization for those committed to study, reflection, interchange, and practice arising out of Buddhist-Christian encounters.
