Cat belays Kelsie on this wonderful sandstone face. A couple from Michigan was gracious enough to collect me halfway up the parkway after one mile of roadway climbing.

Southern Highlander, 1920 October, Volume 13, Issue 3

To think I had initially considered bringing a light sleeping bag.

Southern Highlander

After picking up Lee and Neil at the airport we were accompanied by Stewart and Bill. I appreciate his support of Southern Forest Watch and our efforts to eliminate the backcountry fee.

Our Southern Highlanders

Because at this point, we are definitely Reelin in the years. The answer is I travel cheaply.

Southern Highlander

Locally owned storefronts strike a balance between mountain treasures and high-end boutiques on Main Street.

SouthernHighlanders

Right off the bat we came across a deer, so close to the city.

Highlander

Each step threatened to move the unanchored leg and everything attached miles downriver. Neither of us were significantly injured and our bikes were fine.
