George L Scheper

I then read phenomenology back in the light of anthropology and examine how, for Foucault, the analysis of Menschsein in dreams benefits fundamental ontology by affording us a clearer view of some of the main existentials than the focus on everyday waking experience in Being and Time. Broader conceptual issues the subjectivity-objectivity duality; phenomenology vs. Moral self-creation I think it was Christopher Hitchens who said that he cannot see an American woman without imagining her lips around his own penis.

The Coronation

In the main part of the paper, I consider the articulation of depersonalization in Merleau-Ponty, especially as it figures in Phenomenology of Perception. Multiple commitments and ethical dilemmas in performed ethnography.
