Bradford Dale (Yorkshire)

Whilst it is in and a dale, it is not part of the and has more in common with Lower and Lower Airedale for its industrialisation. The chapel was later converted to an infant school when firm foundations could not be found for a tower, and the new replacement church of St John the Evangelist was built in 1871-74 on the western side of the village Cudworth, 1886, p217. The newsletter also advertised entertainments at Coffee Tavern No.

Bolton Historical Museum

The purpose-built brick and stone Tennyson Cinema was located to the south between Dacre Street, North Wing and Otley Road. This trade was on the verge of being destroyed by the mechanical wool-combs developed in Bradford by Samuel Cunliffe Lister and Isaac Holden. She was, of course, still dependant on the business acumen of the trustees but rental properties or consolidated stocks will have represented secure investments.

History

In the same year Mr H Stockdale was prosecuted for smoke nuisance from his brick kiln.

Plan

The area's access to a supply of coal, iron ore and soft water facilitated the growth of Bradford's manufacturing base, which, as textile manufacture grew, led to an explosion in population and was a stimulus to civic investment; Bradford has a large amount of listed including the grand Italianate. George II became king in 1727.

Undercliffe

Later a large number of the Pilkington family can be found within Little Bolton. Here we find an alternative account of the killing of the Bradford Boar; child labourers in a mill befriended by a brownie; a nightmare ride in a haunted carriage; the city hall statues frolicking in City Park after midnight; a local tribe defeated by Romans from Olicana but carrying on the head cult ; a theatre rehearsal terrorized by ghosts; and twilight terrors in a Victorian cemetery. It became known as the Bolton Massacre.

Map of the Week: Bolton Woods

Balme died in 1884 so the plan must evidently be a little later than this date. At first sight this would appear to be a rather pedestrian sale plan but in fact it contains several points of interest.
