Mackenzie Valley Pipeline, Canada

Natural gas, with its versatility and relatively clean burn, is the fuel that could bridge a global shift to more diversified, sustainable power strategies-whether it's wringing efficiency out of old technology or switching to renewables and hydrogen cells.

THE BIG THAW

Dave Porter, who used to carry the equipment for the CBC crew, became a great aboriginal leader in the Yukon.

What does real consultation look like? The Berger Inquiry.

But significantly, dozens of informal hearings were held in small communities. Maybe the story actually starts in the late 1950s, in a small law firm in North Vancouver.

HI

Publications are listed from oldest to newest. By convincing the other Aboriginal groups to sign on to the APG, they have defused most political opposition to the MGP, since the APG deal requires all the groups to actively support the pipeline in the regulatory process. In spite of a stomach problem, the judge immediately accepted.
