

Trouble on board - the plight of international seafarers

ILR Press - More action needed for seafarers, 'collateral victims' of measures to curb COVID

Description: -

-

Quality of work life

Shipping

Maritime law

Merchant mariners -- Legal status, laws, etc

Merchant mariners -- Labor unions

Merchant marine

Sailors Trouble on board - the plight of international seafarers

- Trouble on board - the plight of international seafarers

Notes: Includes bibliographical references (p. 159-167) and index.

This edition was published in 1992

Filesize: 7.44 MB

Tags: #‘An #unwanted #prison #sentence’ #for #seafarers #stuck #at #home #and #stranded #at #sea

Costly cargo: The plight of seafarers in a pandemic

It is estimated that 400,000 seafarers are currently stranded on ships beyond the end of their original contracts and unable to be repatriated, due to COVID-related travel restrictions. .

Stuck at sea: Seafarers who kept international trade humming despite Covid

States which have ratified the Convention are to prescribe the maximum duration of service periods on board, with such periods to be less than 12 months. MtS provides essential emergency support to those seafarers who become the innocent victims of bankrupt shipowners and who can be stranded for months while long legal battles are fought to recoup costs and sort out the bills, which can run into £millions.

(NEWS) Problems Faced by Seafarers in the Wake of COVID

The explosion has turned global attention to another and potentially worse crisis emerging elsewhere in the Middle East.

Sea Sunday campaign 2014 highlights the plight of abandoned seafarers

The cause of justice is also a task for the churches and, in its pursuit, church ministers are persecuted. Seafarers tell their pandemic stories in new IMO video To help increase awareness of the issue, IMO has launched a video featuring seafarers who describe the challenges they have faced due to the pandemic, and the impacts of the resulting crew change crisis on their physical and mental health. .

Seafarers' Plight Overlooked

Seafarers, marine personnel, port workers, fishers — have been delivering food, medicines and vital goods for the global economy. Lebanese port officials, on the other hand, had their hands tied in dealing with the highly explosive material left floating in their waters. This declaration is a crucial step toward getting seafarers home to their families safely and on time.

Standing up for stranded seafarers on UN Human Rights Day

It comes just a few days after the UN General Assembly adopted a complementary resolution on 'International cooperation to address challenges faced by seafarers as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic to support global supply chains'.

Related Books

- Handzame sculptuur - de geschiedenis van de Vereniging voor Penningkunst
- Jarāsīm-i adab
- Childrens questions - a mechanism for cognitive development
- Criminal law system of medieval and Renaissance Florence
- Hikaku geinō ron - shikōsuru shintai