Child deaths from abuse and neglect

Victoria The Commission for Children and Young People Act 2012 requires that the Commission for Children and Young People CCYP conduct an inquiry in relation to a child who has died and who was a child protection client at the time of their death or within 12 months before their death. Data collection included: semi-structured interviews with professionals and parents; non-participant observation of SF and traditional conferences; and anonymised child protection plans.

Child protection

Uses some elements of the Learning Together methodology. The complexity of understanding the mechanisms by which intimate partner violence affects both adults and children and the associated variations in family and child dynamics poses challenges for designing interventions that can improve parenting in these families.

Implementing the Strengthening Families Approach to Child Protection Conferences

The NPP was developed specifically for families involved with child welfare services. A study published in 2013 sampled 125 addiction programs in the United States with respect to the extent and nature of parenting skills interventions offered.
