While well intended for its audience, this book would require additional representation of more canonical and marginal authors, but this initiative is to be praised since most main stream textbooks on either Hispanic, Spanish or Latin American literature tend to be inclusive of said canonical authors and exclusive of relevant marginal literary figures. The readings cover a huge span of time--13th Century to the early 20th Century.

Bibliografía About the Book Una antología crítica de textos literarios del mundo hispanohablante. It would seem they are arranged by author's date of birth, yet this ignores potential thematic, historical, literary, and cultural connections that might shape broader modules.
