

Satyr against hypocrites (1655)

William AndrewsClark Memorial Library - Category:Staves

Description: -

-satyr against hypocrites (1655)

-

Publication / Augustan Reprint Society -- no.38satyr against hypocrites (1655)

Notes: Facsimile text.

This edition was published in 1953

Filesize: 12.18 MB

Tags: #A #satyr #against #hypocrites. #(Microform, #1655) #[skynet2550.us.to]

The phrase 'Mull over'

LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money if any you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from

Category:Fleurons

I thank my God, quoth the Midwife then, I have buried three Husbands, all proper men; I thank my God for't, though I say't that shou'd not, Yet I can't say, like one that understood not, There was no difference between the three, But if any man a good workman be, He may well do enough, if he be intent, To give a reasonable She content. Here my Beloved, and then he reaches down His hand, as if he'd catch the Clerk by th'crown. With Cardinals, and th' King of Spain's great power; They'l muster up, but I can tell you where, At Armageddon, there, Beloved, there, Fall on, fall on, kill, kill, halloo, halloo, Kill Analek, and Turk, kill Gog and Magog too.

A Satyr Against Hypocrites

An attack upon Oliver Cromwell and puritanism by John Phillips, nephew of Milton, originally published in 1655. But would you know what a preposterous zeal They sing their Hymnes withall? But having sate up late the night before To let the young man in at the back-dore.

The Project Gutenberg eBook of A Satyr Against Hypocrites, by John Phillips.

Then out the people yaule an hundred parts, Some roar, some whine, some creek like wheels of Carts, Such Notes that Gamut never yet did know, Nor numerous keys of Harpsicalls in a row Their Heights and Depths could ever comprehend, Now below double Are some descend, 'Bove Ela squealing now ten notes some flie; Straight then as if they knew they were too high, With head-long haste down staires again they tumble; Discords and Concords O how thick they jumble! Which as the learned Rider well records, Babel battered.

The phrase 'Mull over'

This transcription is of the first printed version of the work, a satire on Puritanism. Early English books, 1641-1700 ; 1267:8. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg-tm electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.

A Satyr Against Hypocrites

The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541.

A satyr against hypocrites. (Microform, 1655) [skynet2550.us.to]

Dunstans Devil was ne're in such a case. Thus they all part, and for that night the Priest Enjoys his own Wife, as good as ever pist.

Related Books

- Dezenz der klassischen Form
- The New Regional Politics of Development
- U.S. policy toward Argentina - hearing before the Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs of the
- Henry Kendall - a comprehensive bibliography
- Future of natural fibres - papers presented at a Shirley Institute Conference on 29-30 November 1977