US 8th Air Force Aces, Mustang and Thunderbolt fighter pilots in WW2

The P-39s of the 35th Fighter Group moved to this exposed forward base on , which gave them the chance to score a significant number of victories fighting off Japanese attacks on the airfield. Arnold's proposal was immediately opposed by the General Staff in all respects, rehashing its traditional doctrinal argument that, in the event of war, the Air Corps would have no mission independent of support of the ground forces.
