Determining grazing intensity on rangeland. This paper reports the first data about atmospheric deposition of dissolved organic matter DOM on the island of Lampedusa.

BG

An overview of problems with introduced plant species in national parks and biosphere reserves of the United States. One of the most prominent factors driving the reduction in AGB was the decrease in soil moisture availability during the plant growing season.

Thus, standard estimates of gas exchange will show systematic error. Both grazing level and sampling week showed differences in organic matter accrual Table 2. The trends of productivity shown by several remote-sensing studies see previous section are largely consistent with mapping of forest cover and change using a 34-year time series of coarse resolution satellite data NOAA AVHRR Song et al.
