Coastal waters

Since the agricultural boom in the 1910s and again in the 1940s to match the increase in food demand, agricultural production relies heavily on the use of fertilizers.

Thermal pollution

When farmers spread their fertilizer whether it is organic or synthetically made most of the fertilizer will turn into runoff that collects downstream generating cultural eutrophication. Appendix C, Factors that Modify Toxicity, includes a section on hydrogen ion concentration. Consequently, is much more important as a limiting nutrient in aquatic systems.

Waste disposal technology constitutes another factor in eutrophication prevention.
