1977 Constitution of the Soviet Union

Stefan-Ludwig Hoffmann Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2011 , 159, 165. That is a wide-encompassing term.

Universal Declaration of Human Rights

This changed during late Stalinism. The wide scope and public nature of the purges horrified both American diplomatic personnel stationed in the Soviet Union, and the world at large.

ICL > Soviet Union > Constitution

Conventional wisdom during the Cold War assumed that these latter rights — such as the right to work, education, health, etc — came to be included in the declaration as a concession to the Soviet Union and its Communist allies.

Soviet Union: Stalin, Cold War & Collapse

Furthermore, some of the stars of the transition process, such as Estonia and Latvia, were hit hard by the Great Recession.

Soviet law

Scholars in the humanities and social sciences began to recall the Soviet Union as a place that guaranteed basic material conditions that had all but disappeared by the end of the twentieth century, and many rejoiced at the reestablishment of state control in the spheres of education and science, even when this control was highly ideological. In accordance with the interests of the people and in the service of strengthening and developing the socialist system, the citizens of the USSR are guaranteed political freedoms—freedom of speech, the press, assembly, meetings, street processions, and demonstrations.

Soviet law

The competence of the Council of Ministers of the USSR and its Presidium, the procedure for their work, relationships between the Council of Ministers and other state bodies, and the list of All-Union and Union-Republican ministries and state committees of the USSR are defined, on the basis of the Constitution, in the Law on the Council of Minister of the USSR.

Soviet law

All UN organs have advisory roles to the and the , and there are numerous committees within the UN with responsibilities for safeguarding different human rights treaties. Income inequality, for example, rose as well. Citizens of the USSR are guaranteed inviolability of the person.
