Beauford Delaney

In 1978—a year before Delaney died in a French asylum—the Studio Museum in Harlem initiated its Black Master series with a retrospective of his work, the first attempt to restore his forty-year career to public light. Similarly, other segments that tend to have higher numbers of ethnic minorities—Catholics, Democrats, practicing Christians and mainline Christians—are more likely to say so. As a result, a minority group is suing another minority group for inclusion in the indigenous minority group — and to settle this peculiar case, one has to go back nearly 200 years.

African Americans

Catlett made prints using the linoleum block method, in which a sheet of linoleum is fixed to a block of wood and then a design is etched in the surface. The textured canvases speak to the emotions conveyed in the countenance of his subject. From 1935 - 1939, Clark studied at the Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Art later the on full scholarship.
