There are a few moths and butterflies that utilize the plant as a host. None of the other seven basic principles of gardening illustrates the impact of choice quite as much as our choice of plants. The purpose of this website is to promote a culture of gardening within the Texas High Plains Region by offering information on an easy and successful way to garden.

High Plains Gardening

I do not know the reason, for there may not be a plant that deer turn away from more. Gregg's mist flower is a Southwest native for the partly shaded bed medium to low water-use bed. The entire year's been updated with some new information and links, and photos added.

Garden Guides

It can be used as a hedge, screen, specimen or focal point, or in masses along a shrub border. Pollinators, especially Monarchs and other butterflies love it.
