All German men over 25 years of age were eligible to vote, and members of were elected by general, universal, and secret suffrage.

Germany, the German Confederation

First, their countries seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other; Second, they desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned; Third, they respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live; and they wish to see sovereign rights and self government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them. I'm sure I'll be able to manage an agreement in which Poland will get Silesia, East Prussia, Königsberg, Lw ów, the region of Tarnopol and the oil and potash area of Drohobycz.

Institutions for the insane in Prussia, Austria, and Germany

Instead Austria waited for cooler heads to prevail in Paris. These alliances served to balance European power and therefore further drifted Prussia and Austria into absolutism Hooker, 1999.

History of Germany, The German Confederation, 1815

He feared Russia and envied its control of Eastern Europe. Its military preparations and quick actions brought the admiration of the Third Germany, which increasingly looked towards Prussia for protection against external threats. He imposed steep fines and then punitively collected them from parishes, to the outrage of the parishioners.

Unification of German States

Princes of the German states gathered there to proclaim Wilhelm I of Prussia as German Emperor after the French capitulation in the Franco-Prussian War. After the failure of the Frankfurt Parliament, Austria's rival Prussia initiated a federation of German states in the Erfurt Union. The Erfurt Constitution thus stipulated that this German Empire would consist of the territories of the former Bund with the relationship between the Empire and Austria to be settled at a later time.

Absolutism in Prussia and Austria

After World War I, Germany and Russia were officially on bad terms. Russia was doing 90% of the fighting and dying.
