The OSGCs are a mechanism for Youth Guarantee implementation, giving young adults tools with which to improve their social situation, for example, enhancing access to education and jobs. The social economy engages with the market but economic activity is not the ultimate goal and social objectives override the drive to generate economic returns.

research methods

Social Land Programmes aim to strengthen self-sufficiency and reduce reliance on social aid by helping people with no financial means to engage with small-scale agriculture. A case study is an approach to what is studied rather than a research method, and can deploy multiple, complementary forms of data collection. Drawing upon multinational research under Horizon 2000 Societal Challenges, chapter authors offer new evidence about the regional and local realities of Social Investment policies and programmes, and original analysis informed by engagement with the service users and local communities affected.

Financial mechanisms are not the main focus of this book, although we do consider some aspects of financial innovation. Social innovation European welfare states were designed to offer support against 20th-century social risks. They were commissioned by the JRF to inform its own Parenting Research and Development programme.
