The Lockean text suggests four ways in which a Lockean might launch an argument for some degree — perhaps a very considerable degree — of mandated equality in extra-personal holdings. It has been advertised for several months in The Englishman, and other papers, that a pamphlet, called the Crisis, should be published at a proper time, in order to open the eyes of the nation.

[SWIFT, Jonathan] The Publick Spirit of the Whigs: set forth in their generous encouragement of the author of the Crisis. London: John Morphew, 1714.

It was published by subscription, with 888 subscribers for 1,152 sets, making it a great success. Cecilia has been imitated by Pope, and has something in it of Dryden's vigour.
