Hidden Powers & Northern Lights

And since trolls are known to steal and eat misbehaving children, troll stories often serve the purpose of keeping mischievous children at bay. The Cree believed that the lights were spirits of these departed friends and relatives trying to communicate with those they had left behind on earth. A bit more North in Norton Sound, the local children were told that the Lights were created by Spirits playing with the heads of disobedient kids and in parts of Greenland, the players of the ball game were the children themselves, still-born ones actually, who played a game with their afterbirth 6! To have students find the range of widths, help them take measurements of both, the shortest and longest distances between the inner and outer rings.
