Recruitment Strategies

The Executive Order also should request that the task force report include a plan to ensure broad dissemination of practical findings for possible replication.

Recruitment Strategies

There are many challenges to reaching this goal, most of which center on changing human behavior and norms in human resources, hiring managers, corporate leadership, and in job seekers with disabilities.

Employing People with Disabilities

Unlike the medical model, the recovery model was developed by people who themselves had experienced psychiatric disabilities and mental health treatment. They get a bum rap.

Inclusive Livable Communities for People with Psychiatric Disabilities

Devising language that counters this fear would go a long way in helping employers and the field collect this essential information—even if only used before the federal mandated language. Chapter Four: Real Jobs at Real Wages Modern mental health treatment philosophy is based on the premise that people with mental disorders have the right to live and work in the community. A high-quality system must be based on research evidence and must also be consumer centric, representing a shift in goals from community-based systems of care that treat and shelter or support consumers via community-integrated systems that deliver high-quality services to customers who want to design and manage their own recovery.

Recruitment Strategies

In a sheltered workshop environment, the agency double collects—they collect from the state vocational program or Medicaid program, and they also collect from the companies they subcontract with.

Recruitment Strategies

Dozens of specialized functions within the human capital process show up as separate products, some of which integrate with the primary platform. This compensation does not influence our school rankings, resource guides, or other editorially-independent information published on this site. Fulfilling valued social roles is the key element in the recovery model.

Recruitment Strategies

There are many recruiting microsites targeted at veterans or other specific communities. In 1985, with funding from the Community Support Program at the National Institute of Mental Health, On Our Own hosted a national conference for mental health consumers, which helped to spur the development of similar projects around the country. With residents living in conventional housing, some of the stigma attached to group homes and residential treatment programs is avoided.
