Growing Up in Evansville

John worked in the iron ore mines of Minnesota immediately before and after his marriage, and their first son John was born in Chisholm in 1907; but he could find more work as a coal miner, and he was forever moving from mine to mine in search of better work and better wages. The teacher had told everyone to remain in their seats and not to get up. Haynie became executive secretary of the city parks board in 1916, and later served as board president.

Now these friends are married and starting families of their own.

Christmas Growing Up: Indiana 1960s

Indiana is one of those states which is considered to be a flyover state, this is mostly because not a lot is actually happening in this state, but from an off grid stand of point, this is excellent.
