Refresher training class: Learners can use this platform to take part in refresher training classes which is an asset to him and to the instructor. The first is the academic market, and therefore training for students.

Web Based Training Software & Presentation Software — Lessonly

Watch This Video Web-based training, also referred to as online training, , and , is training delivered over the Internet via a software platform such as a. These platforms are great for presenting, sure, but at Lesson. Web-based training is also referred to as web-based instruction, in which learners can learn, evaluate, and remediate, without the use of computers.

What is Web

In this context, it is important to ask yourself whether your company has adopted WBT yet? This is what distinguishes training for employees from training for students and makes the use of e-learning trainings in the organization bring the expected results. In the case of e-learning trainings, the company has control over every word of the training message.
