HALVDAN HAFSTEN COLLECTION

I usually buy the cheapest Opera tickets online in advance, for the Family Circle under the roof of the Opera, for something like 15 dollars each, which means that I only have partial view of the stage.

150 years of contemporary art / Auction

New York City Westside, December 13, 2008. The Museet for Samtidskunst in Oslo owns a collection of his works; among them the two early works Interior and Self-portrait from 1942, and an important work dated to the early 1950s — The United Nations, inspired by the artist. His mother was married in 1930 to Einar Johansen 1907—1982 who was life insurance inspector and later art dealer.

Arne Ekeland (1986 edition)

The catalogue spans the 150 years that we have been in business. He was also careful not to let the collection grow in lots of different directions, but restricted himself to his eight chosen artists. The gift functioned as leverage in the effort to build what is today Stavanger Art Museum, which opened in 1992.

Arne Ekeland

. . His first solo exhibition was at Paus Knudsens Kunsthandel in 1942.

Halvdan Hafsten

Artist artworks for sale and wanted. He was a student of Axel Revold at the National Academy of Art in Oslo. A typical work dated to his later years — Blue Rage — is also at Høyikodden.

Jakob Weidemann

The year starts at the bottom of this page and the most recent pictures are at the top. The watercolors are on permanent displayed. The picture is monumental in both size and content.
