An early high-point was a 1—0 victory over Celtic at the opening of the new Hampden Park in 1903.

History of the Queen's Park Football Club 1867 1917 by Richard Robinson

The best guess might be that seeing the YMCA lads play football inspired James Grant and friends to form a football club and that some of the YMCA lads joined them in the endeavour. Former Dundee manager was unveiled in July 1998 as the new head coach. They decided that night to get a football and contributed 6d 2½p a head towards the cost.

The club's members voted to move to professional status following a motion on 14 November 2019. Queen's reached the first semi-finals in 1872 but had to withdraw due to lack of funds after drawing their first competitive match 0—0 with at the. For over a century the club's home was in south-east Glasgow, a stadium which is also the home of the.

Queen's Park F.C.

With 10 titles, Queen's Park has won the the third most times of any club, behind only and , although their last such win was in 1893. Dribbling was a characteristic of English play, and it was not until very much later that the Southerners came to see that the principles laid down in the Queen's Park method of transference of the ball, accompanied by strong backing up, were those which got the most out of a team.

HISTORY OF THE QUEEN'S PARK RANGERS F.C. 1867

He told how a group of young men from northern Scotland used to gather together on Saturday afternoons on a small triangle of spare ground near Lorne Terrace in Pollokshields to practise the sports they had taken part in at school, such as throwing the hammer, jumping and putting the weight generally a big stone. In 1881, Queen's had to beat them twice after Dumbarton successfully appealed that the crowd at Kinning Park had encroached following a 2—1 defeat. One theory is that, as it would not have been considered respectable to hold a meeting in a public house, the adjacent residential address was recorded in the minutes instead.
