ORG Experience in Palestine For more than 80 years, the ORG has worked to improve the lives of individuals and families in the Palestinian Territories through initiatives that increase agricultural productivity, improve early childhood education and nutrition, establish environmental management systems, support the disabled, and help the disadvantaged — including women — create businesses. Participants of the PACT-ICU included trainees and faculty of a variety of medical disciplines e.

Trainee colonoscopy quality is influenced by the independent and unobserved performance characteristics of supervising physicians

The trainers are familiar with the course materials, and they will experience first-hand the learning environment and the importance of the various support features. The relationship between supervisor ADR category and trainee ADR did not meet statistical significance following exclusion of outlying trainee performers, suggesting that the results are not as robust as for the WT category; however, the trend remained unchanged. This study is based on an experiment in which learners participated during their study using face-to-face sessions and an on-line session of a blended learning design.
