political parties served to question the essence of colonialism.

Territorial evolution of the British Empire

The Central Railway, from Dar es Salaam, was commenced in 1905, and reached Kigoma in 1914. We will also raise many questions about the shortcomings of nationalism as a political movement and philosophy in modern Africa, ranging from raising questions about its centrality in decolonization to the role of nationalist views in postcolonial misrule.

Scramble for Africa

Abolition of Slave trade in Zanzibar and the establishment of Mission centers.

British South Africa Company

The Italian claim that Menelik was aware of Article XVII turning his nation into an Italian protectorate seems unlikely given that the Emperor Menelik sent letters to Queen Victoria and Emperor Wilhelm II in late 1889 and was informed in the replies in early 1890 that neither Britain nor Germany could have diplomatic relations with Ethiopia on the account of Article XVII of the Treaty of Wuchale, a revelation that came as a great shock to the Emperor.
