Which one you pick depends on the size and shape of your head and how long you're planning to wear the mask.

N95 Respirators, Surgical Masks, and Face Masks

A good reusable mask should completely cover your nose and mouth, use at least two fabric layers, and be washable. Protective face masks are selling out left and right these days — and with good reason. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health NIOSH and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration OSHA also regulate N95 respirators.

Face Masks, Including Surgical Masks, and Respirators for COVID

It's best to pick one that fits well and is comfortable. N95 respirators and surgical masks are examples of personal protective equipment that are used to protect the wearer from airborne particles and from liquid contaminating the face. The FDA regularly updates its communications about face masks, surgical masks, and respirators, including the answers to frequently asked questions on this page.
