His face was like a summer night, All flooded with a dusky light; His hands were small; his teeth shone white As sea-shells, when he smiled or spoke; His sinews supple and strong as oak; Clean shaven was he as a priest, Who at the mass on Sunday sings, Save that upon his upper lip His beard, a good palm's length least, Level and pointed at the tip, Shot sideways, like a swallow's wings. Maurecia Maurecia eats ice cream every day for lunch. It was a pleasure to breathe the fragrant air of the forest; It was a pleasure to live on that bright and happy May morning! The songs were performed back to the community which inspired the project, at a concert held on the 6th April 2019.
