I argue that Taylor applies and expands Tocqueville's prescriptions to the context of contemporary democratic society, and reassures the importance of citizens' participation in public spheres, which is necessary for a healthy and viable democracy. Taking the nearly simultaneous release of The Tree of Life and Melancholia as its starting point and framing device, this pioneering collection sets out to establish the idea of postsecular cinema as a distinct body of films and a viable critical category. Por outro lado, Taylor e Rousseau equacionam o problema da alienação política na modernidade com base em princípios distintos que servem de fundamento para o engajamento político dos cidadãos.
