Today, about 170,000 people are able to speak Breton around 8% of the population in the traditionally Breton speaking area , most of whom are elderly. Apart from motivation and long-term goals, implementation of the types of bilingual education mentioned here may differ significantly in conceptual, organizational, and administrative detail cf Mehisto, 2012.

These are the languages of the majority number of IASSW member schools. According to French republican ideology see also , all citizens are ultimately Frenchmen and therefore no minority groups i. In many countries, the French and English expression immersion has been borrowed as a superordinate term for what, especially in preschool settings, is considered to be the ideal assimilatory and submersive strategy for dealing with large groups of young minority children and, independently of any migration background, with children from socioeconomically disadvantaged milieus.
