It is his feelings for Hatsue that Ishmael has his own motives for wanting to find out the truth of what happened to Carl. Kazuo and his wife Hatsue's fear come to realization in that there are racist overtones to the questioning by the prosecutor, Alvin Hooks, in playing to existing anti-Japanese sentiment.

Snow Falling on Cedars (1999)

Kabuo has settled into a quiet acceptance of that guilt, but he has also nurtured an appreciation of his wife and children as marvelous, undeserved gifts. A Japanese-American fisherman is accused of killing his neighbor at sea.

He knows that as an honest man and especially as a reporter, he is obligated to come forward with any information that bears relevance to the trial.

The date is December 6, 1954, one day before the thirteenth anniversary of the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor. During the war, the white residents of San Pedro stood by silently while their Japanese-American neighbors were loaded onto ferries and sent to internment camps.
