Accounting Major Essay

"My I chose to major in accounting and what career path I plan to follow." There are two things in my life that I feel passion for; art and numbers. When I started at Miami University College, I always thought that I would study Architecture because even though I loved numbers, I was more inclined to art. I wanted to create something that could bring beauty, because it seemed very interesting and it was a way to develop my creative side.

So I began to study architecture and I must admit it is a beautiful major. However, a part of me thought that it was not really what I wanted to do. I realized that I was not creative enough and title by title, I started to feel frustration. I began to realize that there was something else that I was going to do. I mapped in anything related to numbers, anyway. So I choose any Accounting interest as a hobby. So I chose to major in Accounting because I can work with numbers which I like.

Also, it is a practical major because it is concise, but at the same time there is some kind of art involved. The artistic part lies in selecting the information that is needed to the user and their further representation. The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) defines accounting as "...the art of recording, classifying, and summarizing in a significant manner and in terms of money... transactions and events that are at least partly financial in character, and interpreting the results. I found my perfect combination of numbers and art, even though accounting is more than that. Accounting is the future of business, that's why it's important. The accounting market is on the rise and it's growing rapidly."
