The sectors of the economy linked to urban real estate are consequently booming.

Creatives in the city: Urban contradictions of the creative city

Conflicting imperatives and incentives relating to land and tax reform have set back the cause of sustainable and progressive urban land value capture in both states. The value created by the state's own property entrepreneurship is thus not being recaptured fiscally as it was in East Asia.

Taxing property in a neo

Most of the research for this paper was conducted with a grant from the International Centre for Tax and Development. They invested four times more in this sector than in manufacturing, despite numerous official incentives in place for the latter, and 91 percent of all diaspora investment was in Addis Ababa.
