Privileging Community Voices: Cultural Revitalisation in Museology and Contemporary Art from Papua New Guinea • Afterall

While the histories of non-Indigenous women have been difficult to forge and retrieve, those of Indigenous women have been even more so, since their cultures have been fractured and systematically destroyed by colonisation. In her sculptural work, she also makes use of smell and sound.

5 Contemporary Collage Artists Adding New Layers

One of the main aspects that the exhibition explores is the ability of the artists to capture shimmer. Since the mid-1990s, Nan Goldin's photographs shifted toward a wider array of subjects, including captivating NYC's skylines, uncanny landscapes and intimate snapshots of her private life.

12 Women Influencing the Future of Jazz

The following artists each in their own way challenge and dismantle these narrow-minded notions about collage. Since 2016, the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington has been challenging social media users to —likely a struggle for many, which in turn highlights the lopsided representation of women in the art world.

12 Women Influencing the Future of Jazz

Born to a wealthy family from the Iranian town of Qazvin, Neshat soon left for the United States to get her art education, eventually completing her BA, MA and MFA at UC Berkeley and moving to NYC.

Contemporary Australia: Women

Cynthia Morris Sherman is a renowned American contemporary artist, photographer and film director, best known for her conceptual portraits that raise challenging questions about the role and representation of women in modern society. The skill used in rendering the life-like sculptures of three women who walked wherever they needed to go during the Montgomery Bus Boycotts reminds us of the sacrifices made for our rights in this country. His oeuvre includes paintings, ceramics and graphic art which often depict humanitarian issues and biblical excerpts set among a typically Australian backdrop.
