Live copepods & amphipods feed picky fish & eat detritus in saltwater aquariums.

Interacting factors result in low grade infection becoming fatal diseases. In particular, things that cause stress, such as natural droughts or predators, can precipitate outbreak of disease.

Scuds and Sideswimmers (Amphipods)

A crustacean that's a key food source in Minnesota's wetlands is in trouble — and scientists are intensely studying them in the western half of the state, in an effort to save them. If a few Roundworms may find their way into your aquarium, and the water conditions are great, and your fish are strong and healthy, they may not cause problems. Another treatment is to add Trichlorofon at 0.

These tiny little bugs are a harbinger of wetland health

As the study moves forward, Larson wants to try stocking amphipods in wetlands across the state.

Neon Tetra Disease This disease is named after Neon Tetra fish; however, it can affect a variety of Tetra species not only the Neon Tetra. The reason why you should also increase the water temperature is to speed up the lifecycle of the parasite. Even Japanese people never eat raw salmon or salmon roe , and even if they seem raw, these foods are not raw but are frozen overnight to prevent infections from parasites, particularly anisakis.
