Mausoleum of Helena The Mausoleum of Helena was built by emperor Constantine around 326 — 330. From 1830 until the present day the arena has been used for hosting bullfights, which the Romans certainly would have approved as it is only slightly less brutal as the chariot races and bloody hand-to-hand battles they themselves enjoyed. This Hellenistic Greek bronze sculpture of a seated boxer is believed to date back to 300-50 B.
